City's Pinnacle Park to open this weekend

The City of Bristol Tennessee is pleased to announce the opening of Pinnacle Park, the newest park being offered for city residents to enjoy.

“Come join us, for a Bristol first. Instead of a ribbon cutting the Bristol Mayor and Council will join Pinnacle Partners, for a First Cast into the park lake, to signal the park’s official opening.” said Terry Napier, Director of the city’s Parks and Recreation Department. The festivities begin Saturday, October 18, 2014 at noon and go until 3:00 p.m. Hot dogs, hamburgers and soft drinks are being offered for as long as they last, along with lots of other activities, giveaways and live music.

The park is located within the new Pinnacle retail development, adjacent to Interstate 81 at exit 74 on Pinnacle Parkway. The four-acre park will serve the development as a water retention and water quality area. “Many times these retention areas are an eyesore within a development but this storm water retention / water quality area is anything but,” said Shari Brown, Director of Economic and Community Development for Bristol, Tennessee.

Come out and enjoy the festivities, take a walk in the newest park within the city’s extensive park system. Enjoy the views of the beautiful surrounding mountains from one of the park’s benches that dot the shore line of Pinnacle Lake.
