City releases annual calendar year report

The City of Bristol's Community Relations department has prepared the city's calendar year report and is pleased to announce its release. To view the report go to: www.bristoltn.org and click on Bristol Means Business. The report is available in a digital format and covers public safety, engagement, development and other topics.

Learn about the latest achievements by local government and much more. "A community is much more than what a listing of financial figures can provide. This report captures many of the city's accomplishments over the past year," said Terrie Talbert, Director of Community Relations. "The accomplishments listed in the report were a team-effort by elected officials, city staff, community agencies, and members of our boards and commissions."

Bristol is a comfortable mix of small town charm with many big-city conveniences. It is a blend of tradition and innovation, nature and development, historic preservation and celebratory events. Each of these attributes is what makes Bristol what it is today and has helped the city thrive for 160 years.

"We hope the community finds this information useful and a way in which they may stay informed about their local government," Talbert continued.

Paper copies of the report will be available at the Customer Service desk in Bristol, Tennessee's City Hall lobby, Slater Center front desk, and in the Ewell Easley Annex at the front desk.
